

Full scholarship opportunities for undergraduate students

Toyo SDGs Ambassador Program for International Students

This program offers financial and academic support to international students who are interested in helping to achieve the UN's Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) and are eager to engage in various SDGs-related activities. SDGs Ambassadors are eligible to receive the following benefits:

Up to 100% waiver of tuition and other fees

(Equivalent to 7,500 USD/year)

Free accommodation

(Equivalent to 720 USD/month)

Academic and financial support for
SDGs-related activities

Available Programs

English track:

Global Innovation Studies (GINOS)
Regional Development Studies (RDS)

Japanese track:

International Culture & Communication Studies
International Economics
Regional Development Studies (RDS)
Information Networking for Innovation and Design (INIAD)
Human Care & Support
Healthcare and Sports Sciences
Mechanical Engineering
Information Sciences and Arts
Life Sciences
Applied Biosciences
Food & Life Sciences
Nutrition & Health Sciences

2024 Admissions Schedule

Programs	Application period	Interview dates	Enrollment
All programs (ENG & JPN tracks)	September 26–29	November 18 & 19	April 2024
GINOS & INIAD (ENG) (JPN)	February 9–18	April 13 & 15	September 2024

Language Requirements

English track: IELTS 6.5, TOEFL iBT 94, TOEIC L&R 780 AND S&W 310

Japanese track: IELTS 6.0, TOEFL iBT 79, TOEIC L&R 780 AND

Japanese language test score required by the program
(specified in the Application Guide)

Admissions website

Full Scholarship Opportunities for Graduate Students

- Up to 10 spots available for Master's students
- 100% waiver of tuition and other fees
- Monthly stipend of 120,000 JPY (approx. 900 USD) provided for 2 years
- Engagement in on-campus part-time work required
- Participation in research/academic activities in global liberal arts, culture, and other fields required

Application Guide available in July 2023

Selection conducted in October 2023

Start your program in April 2024

Contact: Toyo University Graduate School Office
mliao_gs@toyo.jp